FORTY-FOURTH YEAR No. 11.

CEDARVILLE, OHIO, FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 20, 1931

PRICE, $1.50 A YEAR

NEWS LETTER FROM STATE DEPARTMENTS

COLUMBUS, O.—Ohio solons of the Eighty-ninth General Assembly are wrestling with many weighty problems which have been introduced as proposed laws for their consideration. Over seven hundred measures have been introduced the time limit for same expiring Tuesday, February 17. During the sessions of the preceding General Assembly 781 bills were introduced and 200 of them became laws and were written into the Ohio statutes.

The proposed repeal of the prohibition amendment by vote next November is drawing scores of both "wets" and "drys" to the hearings in the committee rooms and everyone is being given a chance to voice their sentiments. Several measures are now before the members which seek to increase the gasoline tax in Ohio. One asks an increase of one-half cent and reduction of the auto license fee to fifty cents. Another bill asks that license of motor vehicles be $5.00 and same last from time of purchase until owner again sells vehicle. Another bill asks that gas tax be increased to five cents per gallon, the additional one cent to be used in construction and maintenance of highways and elimination of grade crossings.

The State Assembly paid proper respect to the natal anniversary of Abraham Lincoln. It is not generally known that the great emancipator paid a visit to the General Assembly of Ohio the day following his fifty-second birthday, February 13th. On that occasion he was presented to Lieutenant Governor Robert C. Kirk by Governor William Dennison, Jr., the former introducing him to the joint assembly at a meeting held in the House of Representatives. Lincoln was on his way to Washington for his inauguration as president of these United States. That was seventy years ago and there has been but little change in the old Capitol building since that date. Indeed just a few months ago the same chandeliers and a number of decorations and furnishings were removed from the House that had graced it since Lincoln's historic visit. Lieutenant Governor Kirk was a resident of Mt. Vernon, Knox County, where relatives still reside.

H. G. Southard, M. D., the new Director of the State Department of Health in compiling statistics, reports that in 1930 Ohio had 5,116 cases of smallpox as against 3,223 in the preceding year and 1,236 in 1928. He also reported several thousand cases of mumps during the past year and 100 cases of tularemia. There were 400 cases of smallpox in the state during the past month. Dr. Southard reminds health commissioners that we have been having some mighty fine weather in which to work on fair grounds and roadside sanitations.

Rodney E. McCullum, supervisor of executive buildings is preparing for the spring beautification of the state house park and executive mansion grounds. State gardeners have been notified to prepare plots for both places and Supervisor McCullum proposed to outdo his previous efforts for which he received many commendations from both public and state officials.

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown was a guest at the inspection of Wallville lodge of Elks recently and with District Deputy Grand Exalted Ruler Edward T. Fogo, was the principal speaker at a banquet held in the Elksview hotel, an initiation of a number of candidates taking place shortly thereafter. Former Mayor Wallace L. Fogo, father of the District Deputy, and a past exalted ruler of Wallville lodge was also present and the exalted ruler of the lodge, Paul M. Fogo, is also a son of Mayor Fogo.

The Xenia City Commission has granted the Dayton Power and Light Company a five year franchise for all lighting at greatly reduced rates over the old contract. OLD MASSIES CREEK

Editor The Herald:
One of the historic places of Greene County and one in which many who have gone to all parts of our country are interested in is Old Massies Creek (commonly known as Stevenson) Cemetery. This was one of the first burying grounds of our county and was donated for that purpose by James Stevenson. It was here the Massies Creek Associate (now United Presbyterian) Church was located and which was attended by many of our old pioneer families; and in this burying ground they were buried. And here also were buried many of the best people who came here as early settlers, as is evidenced by the names on the grave markers. In this cemetery are known to be buried at least twelve Revolutionary, twenty-six War of 1812, twelve Civil War, two Spanish-American and one World War Veteran.

Nevertheless this old historic cemetery has been neglected for many years largely because there was no public road into it. Owing to the condition of affairs existing, public spirit was aroused and very many interested in this revered place where many of their ancestors worshipped and were buried, expressed a strong desire to have conditions bettered. The Cedar Cliff Chapter of the D. A. R. took up the matter of securing a public road to the cemetery.

Two years ago, as also last year, at the Memorial Day exercises, there were 200 or more friends gathered there and after the ceremonies a business meeting was held to see what could be done relative to a public entrance into and the improving of the cemetery. A committee consisting of Mr. John Ray, Mrs. Charles Ervin, Mr. Edwin Galloway, Mr. T. D. Kyle of Xenia and Mr. Frank Bird of Cedarville was appointed to act in conjunction with the Cedar Cliff Chapter of the D. A. R. and the Xenia and Cedarville Twp. trustees to accomplish this purpose.

We are pleased at this time to report a new or newly repaired fence around the cemetery, a public graded gravelled road into it so that it is now accessible at all times. The committee and all interested desire to commend the township trustees for their hearty interest taken in this matter. The Cedar Cliff Chapter of the D. A. R. has arranged for the erection of suitable memorial posts with bronze descriptive tablet thereon, at the entrance.

The committee finds there is much to do to put these long neglected grounds in proper condition and pay the debt we owe to the memory of our worthy pioneers. It has planned a program to accomplish much of this in the early spring. This will require the cooperation of those who are interested as there will be quite a bit of expense connected therewith, and they are asking you as an interested friend, first—to send to any member of the committee the names and addresses of those you know who have relatives buried there, second—write the committee your willingness to give one or two days' work or its equivalent in cash, third—send your check for any amount you wish to any member of the committee to help meet the expense of this worthy cause.

Please attend to this matter at once as the committee is anxious to get in touch with all who may be interested and accomplish as much as possible by Memorial Day.

THE COMMITTEE.

LOCAL GIRL RECEIVES LETTER ON EXPERIMENTAL FLIGHT

January 24th, the first attempt was made to drop mail from the Curtiss-Wright plane to the Lascos liner "City of Los Angeles" enroute to Honolulu off the breakwater light at Los Angeles Harbor.

More than 12,500 letters mostly collectors had accumulated for the experiment which were placed in a new type of waterproof bag and it was released as the big trimotored Ford monoplane circled over the steamer.

The aim was poor, however, and it missed the ship and dropped in the water, but it floated, and was recovered and placed on board the liner going to Honolulu. The fact that the bag floated, may enlarge the practicability of plane delivery to ships.

On Tuesday, February 10, Frances Hutchison received one of these letters. The face of the letter bore a cachet used in commemorating this flight and the back was autographed, and stamped with the stamp of the steamship.

BOYS-GIRLS GET CALVES SATURDAY

Fifty-two calves will be distributed to as many boys and girls, members of the Greene County Beef Calf Club, Saturday, February 21, beginning at 9:30 a. m. at the Stock Yards in Xenia. These calves are choice Hereford steers suitable for work, and were secured by the local Cooperative Shipping Association through the National Order Buyers Company. For the past ten days these calves have been at the yards where Mr. Conklin has been caring for them, getting them on feed and past the period of shipping fever. They are distributed to the boys and girls they will have no difficulty.

This load of calves were secured and financed by the local Cooperative Shipping Association. Some of the members will pay cash, but those desiring credit will give a note with suitable security, the note to be paid upon sale of the calves. Mutual insurance will be carried on all calves as it was felt this would be cheaper than carrying insurance in an old line company. The calves will be exhibited at the County Fair and a market tour held this fall. The date and place of this tour will be worked out at a later date to market the calves to the best advantage.

Any boy or girl between the ages of 10 and 21 as eligible for this project. It will be one of the regular club projects to be supervised as such. A series of county meetings on beef cattle feeding and management will be held throughout the year. The first was held January 10 with L. P. McCann, Beef Cattle Specialist of Ohio State University leading the discussion.

The public is invited and urged to attend the drawing Saturday and any boy or girl interested in securing a calf is urged to communicate with this office.

BARTELS IS FIRED

The big topic in official circles in Columbus is the demand for the resignation of William B. Bartels, assistant United States Attorney, who has been dismissed from office over the protest of dry leaders. The story goes that Bartels was responsible for the indictment of Harry Arnold, prominent Republican boss in that city for possession liquor at Election Board headquarters. The case is in Federal court and has attracted state-wide interest. A report in connection with the case is that dry leaders are more determined than ever to prosecute Arnold following the dismissal of Bartels, who is called as a warning to other officials not to meddle in public or private affairs of a political boss.

After the first aid exhibits were given by a group of scouts, Justin Hartman told of his fourteen-mile hike, one of the requirements of a scout. Chester and Wendell Murphy then gave examples of "flag signals." "Taps" closed the program.

On February 18, the total number absent from the grades was 37, while from the High School, it reached 27, a total of 64. Although the number has decreased considerably, the epidemic has still a strong hold on the entire school and several members of the faculty.

Ross Wins Double-Header

Last Thursday night, on the local hardwood, Ross High teams. The boys were on the little end of the score throughout the game, which ended 38-21. Harris and Waddle were able to break through for eight and five points, respectively.

The girls were also on the little end of the score, which ended 25-11. Although there were many chances to score, our forwards were unable to hit the basket. This is the only defeat that our girls have suffered this year from a county team.

Both teams are working hard to be ready for the tournament next week. Prospects are good for a favorable showing, despite the defeats handed us by Ross.

LIBRARIANS WANT TO DICTATE

Governor George White has been placed on the carpet by the organized "graduate librarians" in the state who have attempted to dictate to him just who should and should not be named State Librarian. In other words we have the hired librarians being paid from tax money from their respective districts endeavoring to dictate an appointment that belongs to the Governor by virtue of law.

It might be worthy of more notice if former Governor Cooper had not brought down the wrath of the "graduate librarians" on his head during his term. Contesting with Ohio governors seems to have an appeal with the salaried book handlers but so far the Governors have the best of it. Governor Cooper named George McCormick as State Librarian and his service was very satisfactory to the people who evidently have little interest whether the book catalogers had a "sheep-skin" or not.

Gov. White is being criticized because he has recommended to the Library Board the appointment of John Henry Newman, who had served in the same capacity in former years and had a good record. McCormick is a Republican and Newman, a Democrat, but the walking delegates of the library union have no partisan quarrel on political lines, they only want the jobs. It is no credit that Greene County had a librarian at the Columbus conference that went on record against Newman for appointment.

FARM BOARD ALL BUT WRECKED

With the resignation of two leading members of the Federal Farm Board, one being Chairman Legge, this experimental plan of farm relief is slated for the economic junk pile but not until Uncle Sam is out several million dollars in an effort to hold up the price of wheat by speculating with public money in the wheat market. The experience of the Board should be a warning to private individuals that even a Government board evidently had no hold on a sure-thing proposition. Mr. Legge is a great manufacturer-executive and his sincerity in lending aid to farmers cannot be questioned for his company must depend on the farmer to buy farm machinery. What Mr. Legge has discovered is that farmers as individuals have never been sold on the farm board idea. It is an idle dream of farm politicians of the Brand type that are always more interested in buying a farmers vote on a new phantasmal scheme that is really unknown to everyone. And yet this type of farm statesmen speaks lightly of President Hoover, who has never been in full accord with the farm politician's idea of relief. The radicals have had their day and Uncle Sam is out several million dollars while the farm politicians have been taking the "dirt farmers" for a "ride" to garner votes.

WHY PICK ON THE WOMEN?

The Pillsbury family has offered a gift of $25,000 to each of four universities to be used to establish an "anti-feminism" chair, or something, the object being to develop public opinion against the modern feminist movement that "tends to take women out of the home." Three already have refused the gift and the fourth is said to frown upon it. This is uncommon sense, uncommon because the refusal of gifts, even with silly strings attached, is not usual in the history of educational institutions in America.

As one who has steadfastly declined to become excited over the so-called "feminist movement" and has rejoiced in the emancipation of the sex, we can see less need for an effort to keep women in the home than for one to keep the rest of the family there. As a matter of fact, had the Pillsbury family been willing to spend its money to arouse public demand that not only women, but men and children as well, stay home a little more, we would have been for the proposition.

Men were the first to fly the home coop, returning only at meal time and to roost. When the women began following this example, there was a great hue and cry, epitomized in the fatuous slogan, "Woman's place is in the home." It was only natural that the youngsters should emulate their elders. As a result, no one stays home any more. What this country needs is a "back to the home" movement that embraces both sexes, parents and offspring.—Dispatch, Columbus.

NEWS REEL CENSORSHIP

Secretary of State Clarence J. Brown, publisher of six Ohio newspapers, has gone into the talkies with a plea for the exemption of news reels from state censorship.

In a film now being shown in theatres throughout Ohio, Mr. Brown advocates the adoption of House Bill No. 126, introduced by Representative Goodwin of Butler county. This bill, if it becomes a law, will remove news reels from the jurisdiction of the Board of Censorship. He argues, rightly, that "newspapers and news reels have the same characteristics." Each is responsible to the public for the news material it contains, and if the rights of any citizen are violated by either, an appeal to the courts is always in order.

During the Davis administration the Board of Censorship abused its power to the extent of cutting criticism of censorship from a news reel. The fact that Mr. Brown's present appeal is permitted, without deletion, indicates a more sensible attitude on the part of the present board.

But the power, itself, is wrong and dangerous, and, while it is permitted to exist, the possibility of its abuse is always present. The American people would not tolerate official censorship of printed news. There is no more reason for tolerating official censorship of pictured news. The Goodwin bill ought by all means to be adopted. —Columbus Citizen

IF YOU NEED PRINTING DROP IN

If there is a melting pot in the social, economic and political scheme of present day conditions it certainly can be found in a legislature. Here you find all the elements from every county in the state through members in the senate and house. You have the best opportunity of measuring the real standard of Ohio citizenship. A few days about the legislative halls is a university education, an experience that cannot be found elsewhere. The public reads of the doings of legislatures but never has the opportunity of knowing how the work is accomplished or how public opinion can be reflected for and against certain bills under consideration.

Having some time while awaiting developments in which the writer had a personal and professional interest, we dropped into a committee hearing where a proposed bill was under discussion of interest to dairymen in Ohio. Representatives of a product on the market as a substitute for butter desired certain legislation favoring their business. Here we found farm interests and especially the dairy interests ready to take a stand for a branch of agriculture that his many millions invested in Ohio alone.

In these hearings you gain information from both sides that seldom get into print. Presentation of respective claims are from men well trained and arguments given the committee seldom come from "hot-heads." Both sides are as tactful as the well versed lawyer in court. Neither has cause to say against the opponents product and both sides bring out the bright side of points at issue. However information as to inferior qualities usually comes to the surface by direct questioning of some member of the committee hearing the bill.

We were interested in questions asked the dairy interests about certain ingredients in butter substitutes. We learned the "poor man's butter" was made up of about twenty-seven different compositions. There was mention of cream being used as well as certain vegetable oils, fats animal rendered oils as a by-product from soap manufacturers and even the use of garbage oils. Discussion along this line made us a more determined user of dairy butter from now on although all butter is butter but butter is marketed by grades. There is butter made from sweet cream and sour cream and another kind from rancid cream that must have chemical treatment before it can be used. It was evident that cheap butter probably never has a class one rating in grade.

A representative of the butter substitute people when asked stated that a large percent of their business was in the rural sections where farmers sold their cream and purchased a substitute. This looked like a hard blow to the dairy interests for the speaker stated in the cities the better class of trade wanted first grade butter but families that lived on small incomes used the substitute because it was cheaper as a rule.

There were representatives of concerns that wholesale both butter and the substitutes, and the latter was strongly defended as a necessary product. A representative of the grocers made the statement that grocers sold more substitute than real butter and when asked why stated there was more of a margin of profit.

From the farm interests came the plea that the bill to let down the bars for substitute would only add greater problems for the dairy farmer in a time when there was a cry for relief. It was stated the entire dairy interests in Ohio represented an investment of hundreds of millions while there were only about 80 concerns in the entire United States making substitute, and only a few of these in this state. The speakers for the dairy people did not urge any change in the present laws controlling the sale of substitutes but did oppose opening a new way for substitute butter to be sold in competition with cream butter. Arguments must have been all on the side of the dairy interests for the committee hearing the bill desired by the substitute manufacturers voted unanimously to kill it in the committee.

One could not have heard these pleadings without basing his own decision in behalf of the dairy interests. But going further he was forced to admit that from now on he wanted nothing but first grade butter. Knowing that animal fats and reduction plant oils could not sound well for even a substitute, butter from rancid cream chemically treated was just as bad.

We Postpone, France Not Crime's Jackals
Russia Will Nurse Babies
Propose Ireland

We decide to postpone the building of airplanes, submarines, airplane carriers and cruisers with airplane platforms for fear of arguments resulting in a special session.

The French, logical, determined, allowing nothing to interfere with national defense, proceed to build a series of armored cruisers of 23,000 tons each to offset the marvelously efficient German cruisers, called "miniature battleships."

And France will continue building submarines. She knows that airplanes and submarines represent, in the highest degree, the power to punish other nations, and that the nation with power to punish is the one that will not be provoked or attacked. If anybody attacked this nation through the air, it could only burst into tears. It isn't prepared to resent or punish anything.

In Britain a car called the "Rorail," with two sets of wheels, has been successfully tried on British railroad tracks and highways. On the tracks it rolls on regular steel wheels. Arrived at the end of its rail journey, rubber-tired wheels are lowered below the level of the steel wheels, which are inside of the wheels with pneumatic rubber tires.

And the coach motor bus or truck is ready to leave the rails and finish its journey on the highway.

If our railroads used such vehicles, motor trucks and busses could not successfully compete with railroads between large cities as they do now.

And the value of the railroads' rights of way would be at least double.

When a lion goes hunting, jackals follow. When he has eaten his fill they eat.

Crime develops the jackals. When a killer had finished his man and left him lying dead in an alley, in the rear of 637 South State street, Chicago, two young men, twenty and twenty-two years old, following the murderer at a distance, stripped the corpse of its clothing as their share.

Detective Harold Fogarty got them and the clothing, including the shoes. A photograph shows one of the youths laughing as the clothing is held before them.

In connection with Russia's plan to conscript women for industry, government taking care of the babies while their mothers are at work, you read that this is done because of "the present serious shortage of labor in Russia." You wish we had that shortage here and wonder how the Russians manage it.

Russia's plan to open gigantic government nurseries to care for babies while mothers are working in mills, forests, fields, mines or factories, will present problems that not even Stalin can foresee. Separating women from their babies may be a dangerous experiment, even in Russia.

It is pleasant to hear of anyone's happiness, and you will be delighted to know that Ireland is highly prosperous, "riding the wave of world depression." In 1930 the Irish exported more than $225,000,000 of goods, which is better than merely shipping money to British landlords. Irish banks are steady, the Irish Free State budget is sound. Those that need to say "the Irish can govern anybody but themselves" may have been mistaken. They can also govern themselves, if you get off their backs.

If you ever become well-acquainted with a lady named Guillemmina Guerrero, or one like her, don't trifle with her affections.

Maximino Aceval did that in Mexico City. Guillemmina dressed herself as a boy, found faithless Maximino in a cabaret, dancing with another girl, followed, and shot them both.

An opera like "Cavalleria" or "Pagliacci" represents no exaggeration. The Latin temperament feels everything, especially neglect, strongly. Those that know say the affections are as violent as the jealousy. It must be an exciting life.

People in New York, greatest state in population, are too busy to add to population as they did once. The birth rate has fallen 30,000 in sixteen years. Birth control advocates say the state is getting "fewer and brighter babies," but that is not convincing.

To offset the decreased baby crop the general death rate is at its lowest for all time. Of 1,000 population, only 11.7 die in a year. Deaths from tuberculosis are diminishing steadily, thanks to science. On the other hand, cancer and diabetes gather more and more victims.

A boy could carry all the books that Lincoln had opened when he was elected President.

The qualities born in his brain, inherited from his father and mother and ancestors 1,000,000 years back, made him what he was.

If he had succeeded in his efforts to secure a modest position in the interior department, Lincoln might have gone through life unknown. But none the less he would have been Abraham Lincoln.

One Point of View
All wants, beyond those which a very moderate income will supply, are purely imaginary.

Fast Largely Mythical
Those who compare the age in which their lot has fallen with a golden age which exists only in imagination, may talk of degeneracy and decay; but no man who is correctly informed as to the past will be disposed to take a morose or desponding view of the present.—Thomas Babington, Lord Macaulay (1800-1859), "History of England."

Large Newspaper Collection
What is said to be the largest collection of newspapers in the world has been opened to the public in a newspaper museum at Aix-la-Chapelle, Germany. Among its collection of 150,000 newspapers are curiosities from all over the world, including an Eskimo paper from the middle of last century.

Many Mirrors in Shop
With walls and ceiling completely covered with tiny mirrors, a barber shop has been opened at Arlington, England. M. Fests, the proprietor, cut plate glass mirrors in pieces, the largest of which is less than an inch square. He formed them into many shapes, from stars to roses, and painted them in all colors of the rainbow. Nearly 250,000 pieces of glass were used.

Says Evergreens Have Varied Uses

They May Be Used To Make The Home Grounds More Attractive

Improving the appearance of the home grounds by planting evergreens is a good way to insure an attractive setting for the home throughout the entire year, according to L. C. Chadwick, floriculturist at the Ohio State University and author of a new bulletin on Ornamental Evergreens.

Most of plants used for foundation planting, he points out in his bulletin, should be of a green color and medium or dwarf in their habit of growth. A few of the taller emphatic varieties will be useful on each side of the entrance and at the corners of the house. The medium and low growing varieties are best used to face down the taller types and for planting beneath windows.

If a slight variation of color is desired in the foundation planting, Chadwick states, it is best to use a few of the good deciduous flowering shrubs between the evergreens, or the flowering character and color may be obtained by planting some of the broadleaf evergreen types.

Evergreens may also be used for windbreaks, he says, and it is a good idea to plant for this purpose such varieties as the Red Pine, Scotch Pine, and Douglas Fir. Among the smaller evergreens, the Ware Arborvitae is suggested. It keeps its bright green foliage throughout the winter.

In the new bulletin issued free of charge by the state university, Chadwick also discusses a great many other uses for evergreens, and such problems as where to buy evergreens, how to plant and care for them, the most desirable varieties, the kind of fertilizers to use, and ways of controlling insects and diseases attacking evergreens.

In renting bees for work in the orchard during the bloom period it is best to obtain them from reliable beekeepers who have large vigorous colonies in good condition.

Vogue Changes In Potato Packaging

Small Packages Becoming Popular with Shipper, Wholesaler, Retailer and Consumer

The use of small consumer packages of potatoes is becoming more popular, according to C. W. Hauck, marketing specialist for the department of rural economics at the Ohio State University.

Small, attractive, branded packages, containing uniform quantities of well graded potatoes are meeting increasing favor from the shipper, wholesaler, retailer, and consumer, Hauck declares.

So far, Hauck believes, no Ohio potatoes have been prepared for market in this fashion, yet the practice is having its effect on the marketing of the Ohio-grown product. The sale of this office.

potatoes in bulk, or in unwrapped baskets and bags, is now not only difficult but generally unprofitable. It is probable that the time is not distant when several of the progressive Ohio producers will undertake to reclaim some of the premium market, and, in Hauck's opinion, it can be done only by offering uniformly high quality potatoes in branded packages.

Hauck calls attention to a recent announcement from California. Potato growers and shippers in the Stockton district there have constructed a wash containing uniform quantities of well graded potatoes are meeting increasing favor from the shipper, wholesaler, retailer, and consumer, Hauck declares.

This company is now advertising in eastern newspapers.
